

Morrison-Talbott Library Internet Access Policy

Libraries make it possible for citizens to have access to the information they need to make informed decisions. Every library user benefits from expanded access to information beyond the four walls of a single library building.

The Morrison-Talbott Library and all ILLINET libraries use electronic information networks such as the Internet for a variety of purposes:

- Access to shared automation systems that provide bibliographic access to the collections of local, regional, state and national libraries.
- Access to the wealth of information resources available via the Internet.
- Access to general and specialized shared licensed databases available to ILLINET member libraries through regional and statewide cooperative programs.

Relationship to Other Library Policies

Morrison-Talbott Library's policy for access to electronic information networks is part of the library's overall policy structure and should be interpreted in conjunction with other existing policies. Copies of all library policies are available upon request from a library staff member.

"Global" Versus "Local" Resources

Most resources available via the Internet and other electronic information networks are "global" resources rather than "local" resources. The library does not and cannot control the information content available through global resources such as information obtained from outside sources via the Internet. Internet resources enhance and supplement resources that are available locally within a library. Library users must be aware that Morrison-Talbott Library does not exercise control over information obtained via the Internet and must keep in mind the following points when evaluating information obtained via the Internet:

- Information obtained via the Internet may or may not be reliable and may or may not be obtained from a reliable source.
- Information obtained via the Internet may not be current or accurate.
- Links to information on the Internet may not always be valid. particular information sites on the Internet may sometimes be unavailable, and this unavailability often occurs unpredictably.
- Particular information sites on the Internet may sometimes be unavailable, and this unavailability often occurs unpredictably.
- Certain information obtained via the Internet may be considered controversial by some library patrons.

Morrison-Talbott Library urges library patrons to be informed consumers and to carefully evaluate information obtained via the Internet. Library staff may be available to assist patrons in making judgments about the reliability or currency of certain types of Internet information sources, but are unable to provide definitive analysis of particular sources due to the extremely large variety and volume of information available via the Internet.

Morrison-Talbott Library is not responsible for damages, indirect or direct, arising from a library patron's use of Internet information resources.

Library Patrons' Rights

Library patrons have certain rights with respect to use of electronic information networks such as the Internet. Morrison-Talbott Library will work with other libraries in the Illinois Library and Information Network to preserve and protect these rights, subject to limitations imposed by licensing and payment agreements with database providers.

Library patrons have the right to confidentiality and privacy in the use of electronic information networks to the extent possible given certain constraints, such as proximity of other patrons and staff in public access settings.

Library patrons have the right to equitable access to electronic information networks.

Library patrons have the right to access and read all library service policies and discuss questions with appropriate library staff.

Patron Assistance and Instruction

Morrison-Talbott Library's staff may assist patrons in the use of electronic information networks as time and staff knowledge permits. Printed and online documentation and instructions are available at or near points of service. Formal instruction in particular aspects of electronic information network use may be available.

Use of Equipment and Networks

Morrison-Talbott Library requires that library patrons using electronic information networks such as the Internet do so within the guidelines of acceptable use. The following activities are unacceptable:

- Use of electronic information networks for any purpose which results in the harassment of other users.
- Destruction of, damage to, or unauthorized alteration of the library's computer equipment software or network security procedures.
- Use of electronic information networks in any way which violates a Federal or State law.
- Use of electronic information networks in any way which violates licensing and payment agreements between the library and network/database providers.
- Unauthorized duplication of copy-protected software or violation of software license agreements.
- Violation of system security.
- Behaving in a manner that is disruptive to other users, including but not limited to overuse of computer equipment which serves to deny access to other users.

Children's Access to Electronic Information Networks

Morrison-Talbott Library supports the right of all library users to access information and will not deny access to electronic information networks based solely on age.

Measures designed to restrict minor's access to materials harmful to minors are addressed through parental supervision and electronic filtering. Morrison-Talbott Library is compliant with the Children's Internet Protection Act (CIPA). Ultimately, the library reserves the authority to determine what matter is inappropriate for minors.

Morrison-Talbott Library recognizes that electronic information networks such as the Internet may contain material that is inappropriate for children. Parents are expected to monitor and supervise their children's use of the Internet. Library staff are unable to monitor children's use. Parents are encouraged to discuss with their children issues of appropriate use and electronic information network safety.

Morrison-Talbott Library has installed a filter on all Internet access terminals and Wi-Fi networks. A filtering device gives the library the flexibility to select Internet content using the same criteria applied as collection development guidelines for other materials. The library's filtering devices protect against access by adults and minors to visual depictions that are obscene, child pornography, or – with respect to the use of computers with Internet access by minors – “harmful to minors.” Filtering devices do not replace the need for parents/guardians to supervise minors' access to the Internet.

Library Procedures Relating to Electronic Networks

Morrison-Talbott Library has developed certain procedures to assist staff and patrons in the use of electronic information resources. These procedures include (but are not necessarily limited to) the following:

- Time limits for access to allow use of resources by the maximum number of library patrons.
- Cost recovery for printouts using the library's computer equipment.
- Priority usage for accessing the library's online catalog.

Social Networking

The library uses various social media to inform and/or engage its public. While the library encourages comments from the community, the library may remove comments, posts, links, photos, or other content for any reason, including but not limited to harassment and personal attacks, derogatory or defamatory comments, vulgar or profane language, commercial promotion, improper use of copyrighted material, or other inappropriate content.

Violation of any aspect of this policy may result in the loss of library privileges. This policy is a modified version of the document adopted by the Illinois State Library Advisory Committee, 23 May 1996.
